TRANSFORMATIVE IMPACT IN THE LIVES OF PEOPLE AS COMMUNITY MEMBERS

Thought Leadership for Meaning Industry Led Collaboration

05 August 2022

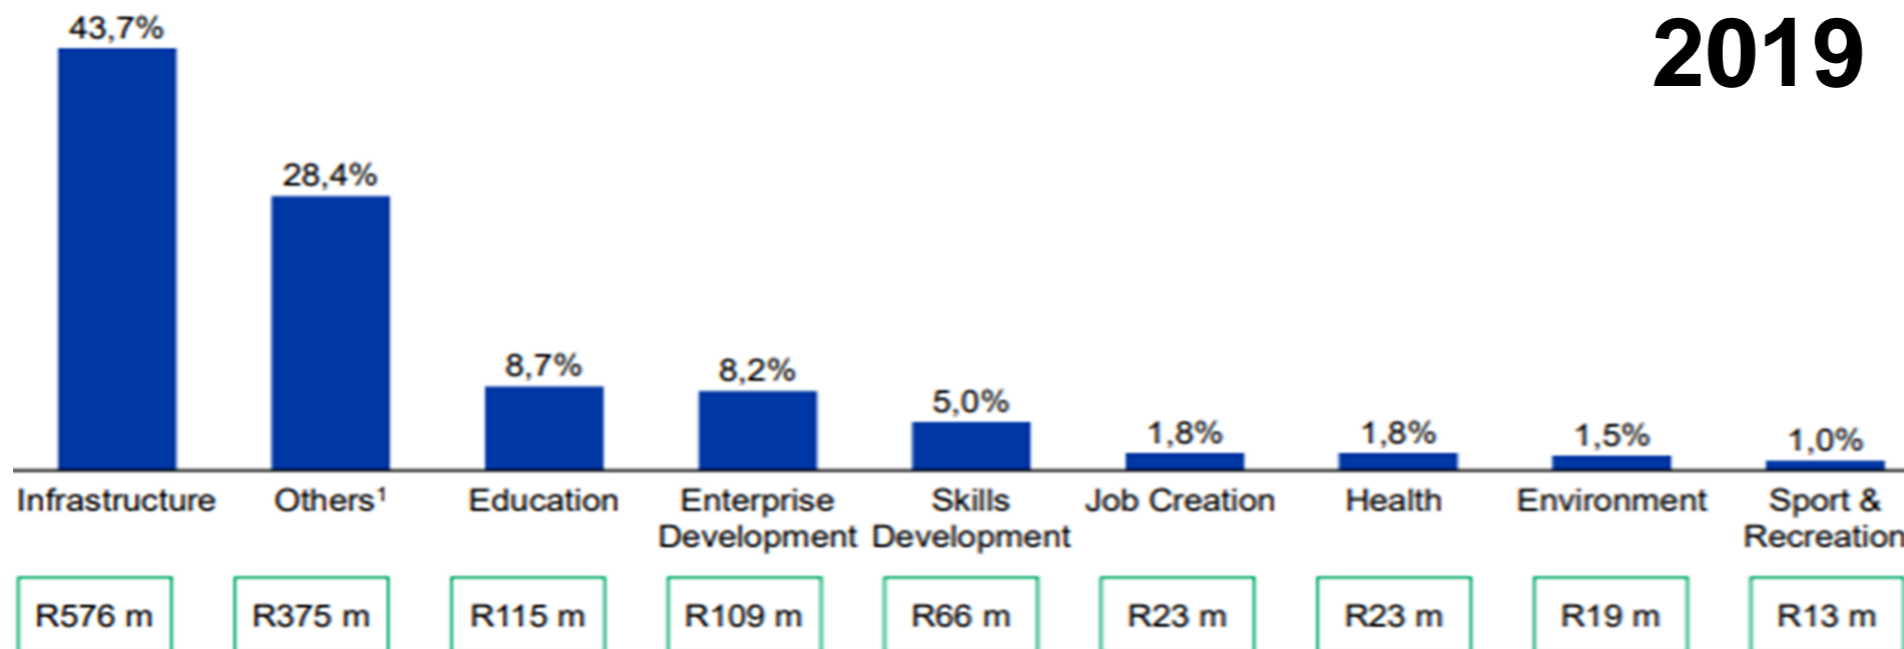

Two sometimes opposing “realities”

Mining industry generally comfortable with its performance...

- The mining industry makes significant investments in socio-economic development programs (mostly as part of SLP commitments)
- These investments are aimed at making a positive contribution to all five (5) elements of the development capitals (natural, human, social, financial, manufactured)

Key impact MCD programmes (by total spend % contribution)

Despite significant expenditure by the mining industry...

..... Prevailing socio-economic conditions in the mining industry's host communities do not always reflect the positive contributions that the industry makes nor the outcomes that the industry is striving to achieve

Webber Wentzel successfully obtains community unrest interdicts for different clients operating in the mining industry

What's really fuelling SA mine protests?

As community unrest weighs on the bottom line of SA's mining companies, communities themselves say they are being excluded from the benefits of their own resources
